De Blasio says he regrets trusting DOJ on Garner case

A demonstration on the fifth anniversary of Garner's death was held at Foley Square.

Mayor Bill de Blasio said on Wednesday that he regrets trusting the U.S. Department of Justice after federal prosecutors declined to charge a city policeman who used a fatal chokehold on Eric Garner, an unarmed black man, five years ago.

He also said that New York City Police Commissioner James O'Neill would decide by August whether to punish or fire Daniel Pantaleo, the white officer who has been on desk duty since he was seen in bystanders' cellphone videos putting Garner in a chokehold for about seven seconds on July 17, 2014.

On Tuesday, the Justice Department announced that it did not reach a conclusive determination as to whether Pantaleo willfully committed misconduct, the necessary element to bring federal charges that Pantaleo violated Garner's civil rights through excessive use of force. Garner is heard in videos saying "I can't breathe!" at least 11 times shortly before he died.

Garner's death on a sidewalk during an arrest on suspicion of illegally selling untaxed cigarettes played a role in the rise of the Black Lives Matter movement.

De Blasio said he was surprised at the outcome and regretted delaying the start of disciplinary proceedings against Pantaleo at the Justice Department's request.

"I regret trusting the Department of Justice, I really do," de Blasio told reporters on Wednesday when asked about his handling of the Garner case.

"In a million years, I could not have believed that the Justice Department would act the way it did. It literally was inconceivable."

Pantaleo was the latest example of a law enforcement officer in the United States to avoid criminal liability in killings of unarmed black men in recent years.

De Blasio, who is running to be the Democratic candidate in next year's presidential election, has been criticized for inaction in the case. Garner's relatives and several civic leaders stood on City Hall's steps on Tuesday and took turns demanding de Blasio fire Pantaleo and other officers involved.

Protesters marched to NYPD headquarters in Lower Manhattan on Wednesday.

Weighing in on whether the police commissioner should fire Pantaleo would rob the officer of his due process rights, said the mayor, who has expressed sympathy with Garner's family. Garner's mother Gwen Carr said the mayor may be her last hope for some restitution.

"We've been failed by every other source," Carr told CBS News. "The de Blasio administration has blocked us up to this point. So I want the de Blasio administration to step up, because he can fire the officer at any time." REUTERS

Impeachment resolution against Trump voted down

2 The House voted Wednesday to sideline an impeachment resolution against President Donald Trump, effectively killing the measure for now but not burying the issue that has divided Democrats. The resolution's sponsor, Democratic Rep. Al Green, was seeking to capitalize on growing criticism of Trump after the president's recent attacks on congresswomen of color. The House voted 332 to 95 to set aside the measure. "Impeachment of your President ... is now OVER. This should never be allowed to happen to another President of the United States again!" Trump tweeted. Green had failed twice before to get an impeachment resolution passed, but Wednesday marked the first time the full House had addressed the matter. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi has long tried to restrain Democrats from initiating the impeachment process against Trump. REUTERS

Netflix shares plunge as global growth falls short

3 Netflix said on Wednesday it lost U.S. streaming customers for the first time in eight years and missed targets for new subscribers overseas, an announcement that jarred investors ahead of looming competition. Netflix shares were down nearly 12 percent in after-hours trading after the company posted quarterly results that showed it shed 130,000 U.S. customers. The world's dominant subscription video service said it overestimated demand for new programming released from April to June and felt an impact from price increases in some markets. Netflix reported that it added 2.83 million new paid streaming subscribers outside the United States, below analyst expectations of 4.8 million, according to IBES data from Refinitiv. Analysts had forecast a gain of 352,000 in the United States. REUTERS

Handwriting evidence may be considered in Durst case

4 Jurors in real estate scion Robert Durst's trial for murder may consider handwriting evidence that prosecutors say implicates him in the killing of his longtime friend, a Los Angeles judge ruled on Wednesday. But Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Mark Windham told prosecutors their handwriting experts will have to explain their methodology before they can tell jurors whether they think Durst wrote a potentially incriminating note. Durst's trial was not expected to begin before 2020. Durst, 76, has pleaded not guilty to the murder charge in the 2000 shooting death of his confidante Susan Berman. Authorities arrested Durst in 2015, one day before the finale of a six-part HBO documentary series called "The Jinx" that explored Berman's death, the disappearance of Durst's wife and a 2001 Texas slaying for which he was acquitted. Joaquín "El Chapo" Guzmán listens to court proceedings. REUTERS IMAGES

So long, 'El Chapo,' as drug lord is sentenced to life behind bars

Joaquín Guzmán was also ordered to hand over $12.6 billion.

Joaquín "El Chapo" Guzmán, the Mexican drug lord who twice escaped maximum-security prisons in that country, will spend the rest of his life in a U.S. penitentiary, a federal judge said on Wednesday after accusing him of "overwhelming evil."

Guzmán, 62, berated the U.S. justice system, and a former associate described how he had paid a gang $1 million to try to kill her before U.S. District Judge Brian Cogan imposed the mandatory sentence of life plus 30 years.

Cogan also ordered Guzmán to forfeit $12.6 billion in a hearing in federal court in Brooklyn.

The judge said that even if the law had allowed him any leeway, he would have imposed the harshest sentence available, adding that any redeeming qualities Guzmán might have were erased by his "overwhelming evil" actions.

A jury in February convicted Guzmán of trafficking tons of cocaine, heroin and marijuana and engaging in multiple murder conspiracies as a top leader of the Sinaloa Cartel, long known as one of Mexico's largest, most violent drug trafficking organizations.

Guzmán, whose nickname means "Shorty," developed a reputation as a Robin Hood-like figure that made him a folk hero to many in his home state of Sinaloa, where he was born in a poor mountain village.

He has been held in solitary confinement in the Metropolitan Correctional Center, a fortress-like jail in Lower Manhattan. Cogan last month rejected Guzmán's request for more time to exercise on the jail's roof, after prosecutors said that would risk an escape.

"It has been psychological, emotional, mental torture 24 hours a day."

Joaquín "El Chapo" Guzmán

Guzmán, who recently grew a mustache, complained about the terms of his confinement before his sentence was handed down.

"It has been psychological, emotional, mental torture 24 hours a day," said Guzmán. He alleged that the jurors on his case allowed media accounts of the trial to influence their thinking — an argument his lawyers have also made.

"Since the government of the United States is going to send me to a prison where my name will not ever be heard again, I take advantage of this opportunity to say there was no justice here," he told the court.

"NEVER AGAIN"

Before he was finally captured in 2016, Guzmán twice escaped maximum-security prisons in Mexico. He was extradited to the United States to face trial in January 2017.

"Never again will Guzmán pour poison over our border, making billions while innocent lives are lost to drug violence and addiction," U.S. Attorney Richard Donoghue told a news conference outside the Brooklyn courthouse. "We can ensure that he spends every minute of every day of the rest of his life in prison."

Guzmán made a name for himself as a trafficker in the 1980s by digging tunnels under the U.S.-Mexico border that allowed him to smuggle drugs more quickly than his rivals. He amassed power during the 1990s and 2000s through often-bloody wars with rivals, eventually becoming the Sinaloa Cartel's best-known leader. REUTERS

Low Cut Connie's Adam Weiner is coming back to NYC and taking no prisoners

We spoke with the live-wire performer ahead of tonight's show in Battery Park. PAT KING

Adam Weiner has had to fight tooth and nail to get the world to notice his band Low Cut Connie. The songwriter, piano player and live-wire performer doesn't waste a single moment onstage as he prowls back and forth, scowls at the crowd and stomps on the keys of his piano to get his rock and roll gospel across. While his band still remains unsigned, Low Cut Connie is playing to bigger crowds as they gain more fans with every passing year. I caught up with the Jersey native before both the band's massive free show tonight at Robert F. Wagner Jr. Park in Battery Park and Weiner's solo show at Joe's Pub on Aug. 1.

You've said in interviews that the music that Low Cut Connie makes is rock and roll and not "rock." Could you explain that distinction?

Well, not that I don't like a lot of rock music. I think that what we do is drawing more from an early iteration of rock and roll before it became rock. Why was it called rock and roll? It's dance music. This is dance music. This is music for the club, for the jukebox. This is music for kids. Saturday night music to make people dance! Everything back then was music to generally make people dance. All of those early records: Chuck Berry, Little Richard, Ike and Tina and then Stax and Motown. These are the greatest rock and roll records ever and you can dance to them. They're not the widest vision of what rock and roll can be. It's just liberation of your body and your spirit. I feel that as time went on and we got more into what they called the "rock era," certain people would take one strain of it and fixate and fetishize one strain. Obviously, a lot of that rock and roll in the '50s was shocking, but it was also boogie music. Then you had people later who would focus on being shocking without the rhythm aspect of it, or the opposite.

Although I like some of that music, that's not what I do. I want to make people dance. I want to move their bodies.

So much of the band is the live experience. You are such a dynamic performer who can whip crowds into a frenzy. Was it difficult when the band was first starting out to get people to respond?

Well, everything with this band has always been a mess. We started out as an unplanned pregnancy. Maybe some people get together and have a board meeting and decide to start a band and then they make a mission statement. That isn't how this happened. This was an accident. I ended up in a situation where I had this record that I really believed in, and we had some fans but we didn't have a consistent band. We didn't have a consistent lineup to we've done that over the last couple of years.

You'll be playing a solo show at Joe's Pub in August. Do you bring a different sort of energy to these solo performances than you do with a band?

Yeah, it's a different muscle group. But I have my 10,000 or 20,000 hours of doing it. The beauty of it is, now I have fans! I used to do it for years and I had no fans, no one cared. I would just force myself to do it over and over again. I would describe the first many years of my career as very parallel to stand-up comedy. Because if you want to be a successful comedian, you have to get up with no fear in front of hostile audiences that don't know you. You have to do it over and over and refine your material to get better. You have to do it for years and most of them get weeded out. But the ones who are really great and who are really focused and stick to it eventually get so good that they get elevated. I did that for years. I didn't have any fans so I would go out there and put myself in the most unforgiving situations. I was always by myself.

Nowhere to run, nowhere to hide. Just me and a piano or me and a guitar. I've been having a lot of fun going back to that a little bit and I cannot wait to do it at Joe's Pub. It's a fabulous club and I will tell you, we're sort of going back to the scene of the crime. In the second year of Low Cut Connie, we did one of our first, kind of legendary New York City shows at Joe's Pub. There were a ton of music venues back then in 2012 that would not book us. For some reason, Joe's Pub booked us. I really don't know why. To this day, I have no idea. But it was a great, great show and a lot of the New York City critics and people in the industry, it was their first time seeing us. I'm going back to the scene of the crime. And this time, I'm going back with five more records under my belt and some fans.

Low Cut Connie play Robert F. Wagner Jr. Park tonight at 6 p.m. (free).

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

“Don’t Get ANY Surgery Until You See This...”

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best “Treatment Formula” For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going to be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

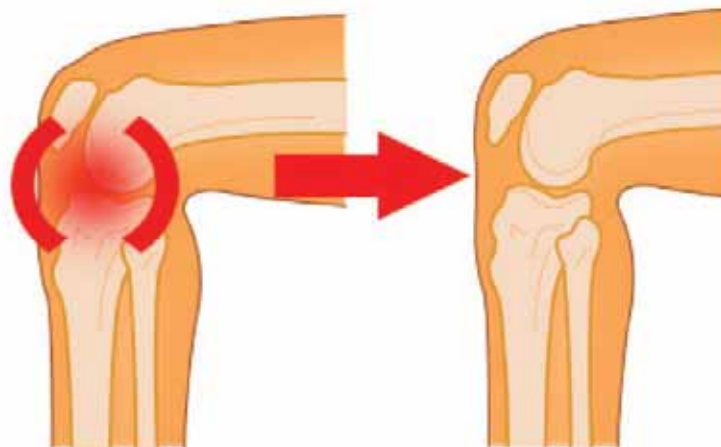

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD “Treatment Formula” A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW...

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these “gel injections” without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patient. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our “Treatment Formula.”

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action... step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez (D-NY) greets Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi.

REUTERS

AOC, Pelosi to meet and discuss working relationship

Date and time still TBD, according to Pelosi reps.

Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, a freshman lawmaker who has clashed with Republican President Donald Trump and her own Democratic leadership, has sought a meeting with U.S. House of Representatives Speaker Nancy Pelosi to discuss their relationship, a Pelosi aide said on Wednesday.

The outspoken New Yorker's request for a one-on-one time with Pelosi, the nation's most powerful Democrat, was made on Tuesday. Schedulers are working on it, and the chiefs of staff of both offices have met, said Pelosi spokesman Drew Hamill.

Ocasio-Cortez's office declined to comment.

The meeting would follow a turbulent few days for both women as Democrats chart a path forward for their House agenda and plans for Democrats to run against Trump and his Republicans in the upcoming 2020 elections.

Over the weekend, Trump attacked Ocasio-Cortez and three other progressive congresswomen of color, known as "the squad," in tweets that the House, under Pelosi's leadership, voted on Tuesday to condemn as "racist comments."

While Trump's attack was seen by some as an attempt to divide Democrats, it presented Pelosi with a chance to come to the squad's defense and possibly reset her relationship with the congresswomen, who have sometimes been critical of Pelosi's leadership.

Separately, Pelosi on Tuesday again tried to tamp down efforts within her party to begin impeachment proceedings against Trump. Pelosi has urged Democrats to hold off while panels conclude investigations into whether Trump colluded with Russia's meddling in the 2016 presidential election or obstructed Special Counsel Robert Mueller's investigation of the matter.

The squad appeared on "CBS This Morning" on Wednesday and Ocasio-Cortez said sometimes "there are members who challenge her conclusions, who disagree with her," referring to Pelosi. But Ocasio-Cortez said that does not mean there is "a fundamental fracture" among Democrats.

Pelosi forcefully defended the four congresswomen in the furor that played out after Trump's tweets, calling his comments "disgraceful and disgusting" and "racist."

The Democratic-controlled House late on Tuesday passed a resolution condemning Trump's comments by a 240-187 vote, with four Republicans joining Democrats in support of the measure.

Dozens of Republicans in Congress have also criticized or raised some level of concern about Trump's attacks.

Ocasio-Cortez's request for a meeting with Pelosi came hours before Tuesday's vote on the resolution, which most Republicans opposed.

The other squad members are Ilhan Omar of Minnesota, Ayanna Pressley of Massachusetts and Rashida Tlaib of Michigan. Trump tweeted they should all "go back and help fix the totally broken and crime-infested places from which they came."

In a late-night tweet, Trump praised Republicans for remaining "unified" on the condemnation vote "concerning statements I made about four Democrat Congresswomen."

Republican support for Trump rises after racially charged tweets: Reuters/Ipsos poll

Support for President Donald Trump increased slightly among Republicans after he lashed out on Twitter over the weekend in a racially charged attack on four Democratic congresswomen of color, a Reuters/Ipsos public opinion poll shows.

The national survey, conducted on Monday and Tuesday after Trump told the lawmakers they should "go back and help fix the totally broken and crime-infested places from which they came," showed his net approval among members of his Republican Party rose by 5 percentage points to 72 percent, compared with a similar poll that ran last week.

Trump, who is seeking re-election next year, has lost support, however, with Democrats and independents since the Sunday tweetstorm.

Among independents, about three out of 10 said they approved of Trump, down from four out of 10 a week ago. His net approval — the percentage who approve minus the percentage who disapprove — dropped by 2 points among Democrats in the poll.

Trump's overall approval remained unchanged over the past week. According to the poll, 41 percent of the U.S. public said they approved of his performance in office, while 55 percent disapproved.

The results showed strong Republican backing for Trump as the Democratic-led U.S. House of Representatives passed a symbolic resolution on Tuesday, largely along party lines, to condemn him for "racist comments" against the four Democratic lawmakers.

All four U.S. representatives — Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez of New York, Ilhan Omar of Minnesota, Ayanna Pressley of Massachusetts and Rashida Tlaib of Michigan — are U.S. citizens. Three were born in the United States.

The public response to Trump's statements appeared to be a little better for him than in 2017, after the president said there were "very fine people" on both sides of a deadly white nationalist rally in Charlottesville, Virginia.

In that instance, Trump's net approval dropped by about 10 points a week after the Charlottesville rally.

This time, while Democrats and some independents may see clear signs of racial intolerance woven throughout Trump's tweets, Republicans are hearing a different message, said Vincent Hutchings, a political science and African-American studies professor at the University of Michigan.

"To Republicans, Trump is simply saying: 'Hey, if you don't like America, you can leave,'" Hutchings said.

"That is not at all controversial. If you already support Trump, then it's very easy to interpret his comments that way."

By criticizing liberal members of the House, Trump is "doing exactly what Republicans want him to do," Hutchings said. "He's taking on groups that they oppose."

The Reuters/Ipsos poll was conducted online in English and gathered responses from 1,113 adults, including 478 Democrats and 406 Republicans in the United States. It has a credibility interval, a measure of precision, of 3 percentage points for the entire group and 5 points for Democrats or Republicans. REUTERS

Italian, US police make arrests as Mafia clan looks to regroup

About 18 allies of the Gambino family were arrested in Palermo.

Italian and U.S. police have launched a coordinated crackdown on a Sicilian Mafia family that was seeking to rebuild its power base after years of exile in the United States, Italian investigators said on Wednesday.

More than 200 police, including officers from the FBI, arrested 18 people in Sicily as part of their investigation into the Inzerillo clan in the island's capital Palermo and the allied New York-based Gambino family.

A 19th suspect is being sought in the United States.

Sicily's organized crime group, known as "Cosa Nostra" (Our Thing), has been in a state of flux since 2017, when its boss of bosses Salvatore "Toto" Riina died in prison, where he had spent almost a quarter of a century.

Riina launched a ferocious mafia war on the Mediterranean island in the 1980s, chasing the Inzerillo family out of their stronghold in the Palermo suburb of Passo di Rigano and into self-imposed U.S. exile.

The family has since looked to reclaim its old business, police said, helped by influential allies in New York.

The investigation "has registered the strong bond established between Cosa Nostra Palermo and U.S. organized crime," particularly the Gambino clan, a police statement said.

There was no immediate comment from either the Gambino or Inzerillo families.

The Gambinos are one of the five historic Italian-American Mafia families in New York. Past charges against family operatives have included murder, loan sharking and illegal drug distribution.

The reported crime boss of the family, Francesco "Franky Boy" Cali, was gunned down in front of his Staten Island home in March — a killing that deeply alarmed the Inzerillo clan.

FBI officers and Italian colleagues with international search warrants carried out raids on three properties in New Jersey, Staten Island and Philadelphia, police said.

Italian police said the suspects arrested on Wednesday faced a string of charges, including membership of the mafia, aggravated extortion, fraud and "unfair competition."

Among those detained were Salvatore Gambino, the mayor of a village near Palermo, and Tommaso and Francesco Inzerillo, close relatives of Salvatore Inzerillo who was killed by Riina in 1981.

Once all-powerful on Sicily, the Cosa Nostra has been squeezed over the past two decades, with many bosses jailed, businesses sequestered and locals increasingly ready to defy it.

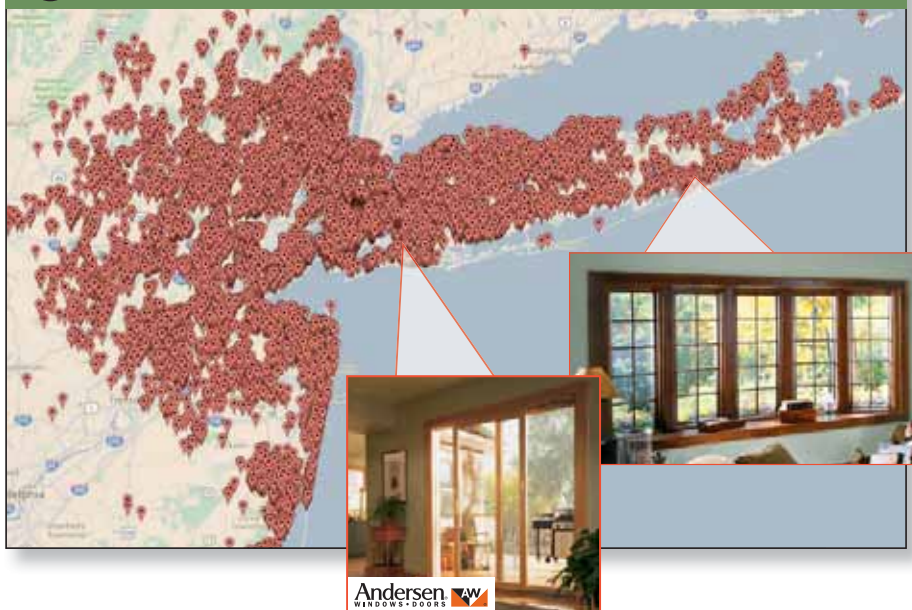

Prosecutors have warned repeatedly that the group is looking to rebuild.

The state's fight against the Mafia got serious in 1992 after the group murdered two of Italy's top magistrates, Giovanni Falcone and Paolo Borsellino, triggering national outrage and finally forcing compliant politicians to act.

Friday marks the 27th anniversary of Borsellino's death. REUTERS

During NYC's heat wave, find a cooling center near you

This weekend's heat index is expected to reach at least 105 degrees.

DEVIN GANNON
letters@metro.us

The year's first heat wave is expected to hit New York City this weekend, with temperatures reaching over 95 degrees for three days. While officials predict it won't last as long as the city's longest heat wave, in August 1953, which persisted for 12 insufferable days, this weekend's temperatures, with a heat index over 105 degrees, will be the hottest felt in NYC in the last seven years. The city on Wednesday opened roughly 500 cooling centers across the five boroughs to provide relief to those who are most vulnerable during the heat wave. NYC.gov has an interactive map where you'll be able to locate the nearest air-conditioned public facilities in your neighborhood.

"Extreme heat is dangerous, period," Mayor Bill de Blasio said in a statement on Wednesday. "I urge all New Yorkers to exercise caution this weekend as temperatures near 100. Look out for your neighbors, friends and family and call 311 to find a cooling center. We are deploying all resources at our disposal to ensure New Yorkers remain safe and cool during extreme heat."

The city's cooling centers will be open July 17 until July 21. Public libraries, community facilities, senior centers and other sites will offer a spot to cool off. Those without air-conditioning in their homes, the elderly and those who are pregnant are especially vulnerable to extreme heat.

Other places to beat the heat for free this week include spray showers at the city's parks and playgrounds, public pools (with hours extended to 8 p.m.) and beaches (open late until 7 p.m.), whether in NYC or sandy shores just outside of the city. Those aged 18 and older can ask your local firehouse to unclog a fire hydrant and have it fitted with a spray cap — one way New Yorkers have been cooling off since 1896.

For more information about the locations and hours of operation for cooling centers, contact 311.

Prosecutors drop Kevin Spacey sex assault case

Massachusetts prosecutors on Wednesday announced they had dropped a criminal case alleging that former "House of Cards" star Kevin Spacey sexually assaulted an 18-year-old man at a bar in Nantucket over three years ago.

Prosecutors said they made the decision to drop the felony indecent assault and battery charge against the Oscar winner after the alleged victim invoked his right under the U.S. Constitution against giving self-incriminating testimony.

Spacey's lawyers had previously accused the man of deleting text messages that would support the actor's defense. The man invoked his Fifth Amendment rights during a hearing earlier this month concerning the whereabouts of his cell phone, which was missing.

Spacey, who won an Academy Award in 2000 for his role in "American Beauty," had pleaded not guilty to the charge. His lawyers had called the allegations against him "patently false."

Lawyers for Spacey and the accuser did not immediately respond to requests for comment.

The actor, 59, was one of dozens of men in the entertainment industry, business and politics who have been accused of sexual misconduct following the emergence in 2017 of the #MeToo movement.

Prosecutors had charged Spacey in the Nantucket case in December.

The accuser told police Spacey had bought him several rounds of beer and whiskey at the Club Car Restaurant on Nantucket in July 2016 when he was 18 and said at one point, "Let's get drunk," according to charging documents.

As they stood next to a piano, Spacey groped him, he told investigators. REUTERS

Aries Call in people you know can help you out physically, intellectually and emotionally. Don't give up when things are just about to turn in your favor.

Taurus Take the initiative when it comes to clearing up unfinished business. Much can be accomplished if you complain less and do more. A personal pick-me-up will be rejuvenating.

Gemini Know who and what you are up against before you make trouble. Excess of any kind will turn into a fiasco, and you'll be left dealing with the mess that results.

Cancer Emotional spending should be restricted; it won't make you feel better when you look at your bank account. Take a minimalist approach to life to eliminate stress. Make love a priority.

Leo Be a part of the solution, not part of the problem. Consistency, cooperation and compromise will all be necessary if you plan to get things done. A positive attitude will bring good results.

Virgo Making significant changes will improve your attitude, lifestyle and relationships with others. Updating your appearance will attract attention. Romance is on the rise.

Libra Intelligence will help you overcome any controversy you face. Refuse to let changes going on in your personal life cause you to neglect your responsibilities. Set high standards.

Scorpio You'll know what to do, but doing it won't be easy if you let your anger take charge. Dismiss the past and push forward with optimism.

Sagittarius Stick to a plan and don't let anyone convince you to do things otherwise. If you fold under pressure, you will end up scrambling to counter someone else.

Capricorn You know what's best for yourself, so don't let someone else make decisions for you. If you want to make a change at home, get the go-ahead and proceed with enthusiasm.

Aquarius Emotional situations will keep you guessing. Until you have a clear-cut view of what's actually going on, you are best off remaining an observer.

Pisces An emotional secret will be revealed. You must be honest and put whatever is weighing heavily on your mind to rest. Contribute to something you feel passionate about. EUGENIA LAST NYC Summer Restaurant Week 2019 is right around the corner, and you don't want to miss it!

New York City welcomes back its famous summer restaurant week for the 26th year. NYCgo.com reports that restaurant week was originally created as a one-time event to welcome the Democratic National Convention to New York City in 1992. Even though it was designed to impress event attendees, local residents fell in love with the concept, and it's become a NYC staple ever since, so much so that it occurs both in the summer and in the wintertime.

NYC's summer restaurant week from July 22 to August 16. Over 370 restaurants will be participating in this delicious, city-wide event. Each restaurant participating will be offering two-course lunches for $26 and $42 for a three-course dinner.

Since almost 400 places are participating, we've rounded up the 8 best spots for you to check out this Restaurant week, from Asian-inspired dishes to classic Italian food, here's where you need to grab a bite and don't forget to book your reservations ASAP!

Antica Pesa

If you love Italian food more than anything, you're in luck. Antica Pesa can cure your craving for Italian food in Brooklyn. This year they as part of their antipasti portion of the menu, they are offering Tartare di Manzo con Uovo Fritto, which is a rich beef tartare with salt, pepper, mustard, topped off a perfectly fried egg and crumble. For main, we suggest checking out their Trofie Pesto e Burrata which is imported pasta paired with pesto, Parmigiano Reggiano DOP, extra virgin all olive oil and creamy burrata. Finally, for dessert, check out their classic Tiramisu. Sunday to Thursday 6 p.m.-10 p.m. and Friday and Saturday 6 p.m.-11 p.m., 115 Berry Street, Brooklyn

The Flatiron Room

The Flatiron Room is known as one of the best whiskey spots in the world. They are a classic and timeless spot complete with live music. Their restaurant week menu features perfectly crispy pan-crusted Portobello fries with luxe saffron aioli; Thyme roasted chicken with rainbow chard, cacio e pepe orzo, and caramelized white wine shallot sauce. To finish off your dinner, they are offering something called Chocolate Oblivion, which is fudge-like cake, with some crème Fraîche and more.

Monday to Saturday, 5 p.m.-2 a.m. and Sunday, 5 p.m.-12 a.m., 37 W. 26th St.

Blue Fin

Blue Fin is a paradise for all seafood lovers. Although this spot is in the middle of Times Square, the meal will take you to the waterfront. For restaurant week, as an appetizer, they are offering caramelized figs and yellow peaches complete with aged balsamic whipped ricotta and topped with watercress. For a main, we suggest trying their lobster coral and ricotta gnocchi with baby shrimp, fresh corn, green squash, and cauliflower. For dessert check out their Valrhona chocolate cheesecake topped with locally made strawberry ice cream and paired with a passion fruit anglaise.

Sunday-Monday 7 a.m.-11 p.m., Tuesday-Thursday: 7 a.m.-11:30 p.m. and Friday-Saturday 7 a.m.-12

a.m., 1567 Broadway (at 47th Street)

DaDong

DaDong is a restaurant by celebrity chef, Chef Dong Zhenxiang. The menu is full of Beijing-inspired dishes, that will bring your taste buds on an exotic adventure. For an appetizer consider the refreshing cold avocado noodles with a spicy Sichuan sauce. For your entrée taste, the wonderful prime chili diced short ribs and for dessert, we recommend checking out their iced glutinous rice paired with peanuts and fresh summer fruits.

Monday-Saturday 12 p.m.-10 p.m., 3 Bryant Park

Bluebird London

If you're dreaming about going across the pond, Bluebird London is the perfect spot to get a taste of London. Start your meal with their luxurious chicken liver and foie gras parfait paired with oranges, carrots, and toasted brioche. Enjoy roasted chicken with vibrant green asparagus with a lemon sherry sauce as your main dish. Finish off your meal with British favorite sticky toffee pudding, a sweet cake drenched in butterscotch and topped with vanilla ice cream.

Tuesday to Saturday 5 p.m.-10 p.m. and Sunday & Monday 5 p.m.-9 p.m., 10 Columbus Circle, At 58th Street, 3rd Floor

Delmonico's

Delmonico's is the first-ever fine dining restaurant in the country, and it's been opened since 1837, and it's well-known for creating some of America's classic dishes. For restaurant week this summer, they are offering an appetizer of exquisite heritage pig Bolognese on top of cavatelli noodles paired with some sharp ricotta salata. For an entrée, we suggest checking out their savory salt-brick Amish chicken done in their famous a la Keene style. Although there is an $8 supplement charge, there's no better place to try Baked Alaska then the birthplace of it. Let your tastebuds embrace the iconic, walnut cake with apricot jam, topped off with banana gelato and a classic meringue.

Monday-Saturday 5 p.m.-10 p.m., 56 Beaver St.

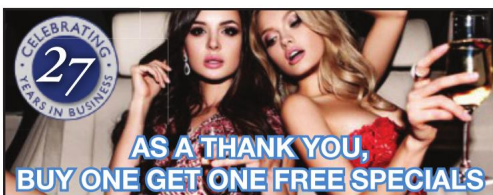

Bodega Negra

For those looking for the south of border flavor this restaurant, week look no further than Bodega Negra. Start off your meal with cheesy Queso Fundido, completely with chorizo, creamy rajas (pepper in a cream sauce), with soft corn tortillas. For a main, we suggest trying out their tasty Arracheras which is perfectly charred skirt steak, with juicy grilled peach salsa, chimole black beans, and delicate flour tortillas. Finish off your meal with a classic flan paired with summer fruits, coconut and finished off with whipped cream.

Everyday 5:30 p.m. to late, 355 W. 16th St.

The Irvington

The Irvington is known for its Mediterranean-influenced American classics, so if you want to step out of your comfort zone, this is the ideal spot for you. For starters, we suggest trying out their grilled octopus, paired

Ozy Fest returns to Central Park

Here's everything you need to know about this weekend's festival.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER

On July 20 and 21, Central Park welcomes back its famous Ozy Fest. The event will take place on Central Park's the Great Lawn. This weekend the festival will have 50 performers, four stages and it is expected to have over 100,000 guests.

According to its website, Ozy Fest is a festival designed for curious minds, and it features two full days of art, live music, cooking demos, good food, and conversations with various leaders from all walks of life. Guests include presidential candidates, famous writers, artists and more.

John Legend
ALL PHOTOS GETTY

The event will be hosted by former Yankee Star, Alexander Rodriguez and co-founder of Ozy, Carlos Watson.

This year's musical lineup is star-studded and will feature performances by John Legend, Miguel, Tove Lo, and more. Laughs at the festival will be provided by these comical geniuses, Trevor Noah, Dulcé Sloan, and more.

Spike Lee, Megan Rapinoe, Dr. Oz, Jameela Jamil will all be participating in live discussions about ideas with attendees.

Get inspired to get political with a few democratic presidential nominees such as Beto O'Rourke and Kirsten Gillibrand. Experience an interactive "open mic" with John Kasich or maybe check out a question and answer session with Stacey Abrams.

If you're more into food, then politics, don't worry Ozy still has you covered. Celebrity chefs such as Rachael Ray and Marcus Samuelsson will be doing some live demos.

Chef Robert Irvine on the brand-new season of 'Restaurant Impossible'

The new season premieres Saturday, July 20, at 10 p.m. on Food Network. PAT KING

This Saturday, July 20, marks the premiere of the all-new season of Food Network's long-running hit series "Restaurant Impossible" with famed chef Robert Irvine. In the show, Irvine is given just two days and $10,000 to help restaurant owners around the country turn their businesses around. I caught up with Irvine ahead of the premiere to talk about working within the boundaries the show has created and hammering home some tough lessons to those in need of hearing them.

In your show, you give yourself two days to turn a restaurant around.

What is the hardest part of giving yourself such a tight deadline?

I think the hardest part is, I don't know anything before I walk into the restaurant. I don't know about the people, the restaurant itself. So, what you see is real-time. For me, it's getting the owners to relax and trust me. Because if they don't trust you, it's a fight the whole 48 hours. Luckily, in the 190-something shows that we've done, normally about eight hours and one minute [in], they realize I'm here to help them. So, I think that the toughest part is to get them to drop 30 years of bad habits and listen to something new. Change is not something that we like.

Do you ever wish you could have done more? I always wish for more time. I always wish. But, the coolest thing is, those that really want to succeed really throw themselves in and listen. If you look this Saturday, we have comprised a new show of "Restaurant Impossible," new season. We have a new show that's called "Restaurant Impossible Revisited." We go back and visit these restaurants that I did seven or eight years ago. And they might [have] taken to heart what I said and gone beyond that and they're still successful. Not everybody is successful. I think those that listen are.

You are only allowed to use $10,000. Is that as big an obstacle for you?

It is, of course. It is very tough to design as the figures change, so we have to reformat or re-use existing product as we can, repurholster or fix in some way, shape or form. So, obviously time and budget are huge obstacles for me and I want it all done. If the ceiling's bad, I want the ceiling done. If the floor's bad, I want the floors done. If the tables are bad, I want — so I'm always pushing constantly to get the most out of that dollar as you can.

Is there ever a time where you think to yourself that a certain restaurant might be a lost cause?

I don't think anybody is a lost cause. Some take longer to learn than others. But again, I believe what the viewer doesn't see is, when I'm not filming, every second and every minute of 48 hours, I'm going through one of the things that they need to know that we just don't have time to catch on camera. There are only 42 minutes of the show and I've got to break 30 years of bad habits. The camera catches their cooking skills — you know, you see a small portion of them — but that goes on forever. Every minute of that 48 hours is taken up with teaching, so it's important for them, it's emotional for them and it is for me, too. Some you really get behind [it], others you don't. It's the same level of giving on my part but some people, I don't know, don't embrace it as much as others.

10 best MOments of Mariano

Metro counts down some of the moments that made the Yankees closer the best ever as he enters the Hall of Fame this weekend.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The end of July provides America's Pastime with one of its most hallowed weekends as the Class of 2019 is inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown this Sunday.

Headlining this year's set of inductees is the game's greatest closer and New York Yankees legend, Mariano Rivera, who became the first player ever to receive a 100-percent vote into the Hall.

Rivera's resume is as sterling as one will ever find in baseball.

The 13-time All-Star owns the MLB record with 652 saves along with 5 World Series titles and five Reliever of the Year awards in a career that spanned from 1995-2013.

Owning a career 2.21 ERA, Rivera developed into the game's most dominant closer behind an unhittable cutter — a pitch he describes as “a gift from God.”

Needless to say, countless, enormous feats dotted such a legendary career. So before he heads to the podium on Sunday, Metro picked out 10 of his greatest moments in the majors.

DOMINANCE IN '96

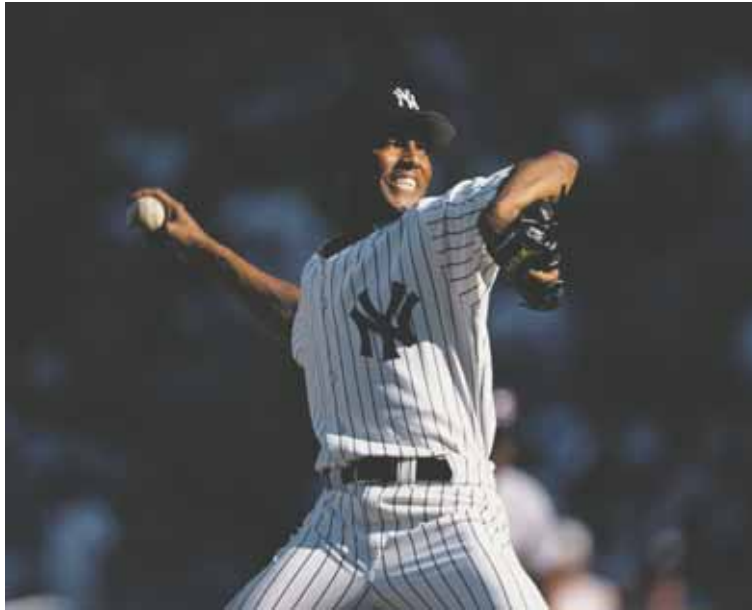

Younger Yankees fans might not know that Rivera began life in the New York bullpen as a set-up man for closer John Wetteland.

In just his second MLB season in 1996, Rivera laid the groundwork to his Hall-of-Fame career by putting up one of the most dominant seasons ever by a set-up man.

Rivera led all Yankees relievers that year with 107.2 innings of work, posting a minuscule 2.09 ERA with 130 strikeouts. He remarkably accrued more punchouts than starters Jimmy Key, Kenny Rogers, and Dwight Gooden that year — all of whom recorded at least 169 innings of work.

'99 FALL CLASSIC MVP

Rivera became just the fourth relief pitcher in Major League Baseball history to win a World Series MVP and the last to do so to date.

Against the Atlanta Braves during the 1999 Fall Classic, the then-29-year-old recorded two saves in three appearances while not allowing a single run in the Yankees' sweep.

It was the cherry on top of a dominant postseason in which Rivera pitched 12.1 innings of shutout ball while recording six saves in the process.

THE THREE-PEAT

It wasn't Rivera's most sterling performance at a World Series, but the closer was the man to wrap up the Yankees' third-consecutive championship while defeating the New York Mets in the first Subway Series since 1956.

Rivera allowed two runs (gasp) in four outings against the Mets, adding another two saves to his postseason resume.

The final out of the clinching Game 5, a fly-out to center by Mike Piazza, saw Rivera set a MLB record with his seventh career World Series save.

GAME 7, 2003 ALCS

The second of Rivera's postseason series MVP awards came in 2003 against the Boston Red Sox. It's a series best known for Aaron Boone's walk-off home run in Game 7 that extended the Red Sox's curse for another year, but Rivera might have provided the biggest boost.

He threw an astounding three innings of shutout ball from the ninth inning to the 11th, using 48 pitches to record nine outs.

Boone's home run off of Tim Wakefield delivered the win to Rivera while capping off a series in which the closer allowed a single run on five hits in eight innings of work.

CLOSING DOWN THE OLD STADIUM

It was only fitting that Rivera was the man to record the final outs at the Old Yankee Stadium, which closed its doors in 2008 after 80-plus years of operation.

Rivera shut down the Baltimore Orioles on Sept. 21, recording a 1-2-3 inning to secure a 7-3 victory.

SAVE NO. 500

On Jun. 28, 2009 against the Mets, Rivera became the second closer ever to hit the 500-save mark, joining fellow Hall-of-Famer Trevor Hoffman.

It wasn't a run-of-the-mill save, however.

Rivera's HOF career

After being called on in the eighth for an extended save, Rivera had to bat in the top-of-the-ninth to stay in the game. With the bases loaded, he drew a walk, recording his first career RBI.

He proceeded to shut the Mets down in the bottom half of the inning to secure the milestone save.

FINAL TITLE IN '09

Even at 39 years old, Rivera was still a force to be reckoned with on baseball's biggest stage.

In the 2009 World Series against the Philadelphia Phillies, Rivera appeared in all four games, recording two saves.

Once again, he didn't allow a single run in 5.1 innings of work while striking out three.

It would be the final championship of Rivera's career.

SAVE NO. 602

It was a foregone conclusion even before his retirement that Rivera was the greatest closer of all-time.

But on Sept. 19, 2011, he secured that title numerically, notching his 602nd career save to break Hoffman's record of 601.

Rivera worked a spotless ninth inning against the Minnesota Twins to record his 43rd save of the season. He would record one more save the following day to cap off a remarkable age 41 season.

2013 ALL-STAR MVP

Rivera was able to enjoy his final All-Star Game in New York, albeit in Queens at Citi Field.

Regardless, he was given a hero's send-off while working a scoreless eighth inning, setting down Jean Segura, Allen Craig, and Carlos Gomez.

He was awarded the All-Star Game MVP as a fitting tribute to a great career, joining Derek Jeter as the only Yankees to win the award.

CALLING IT QUITS

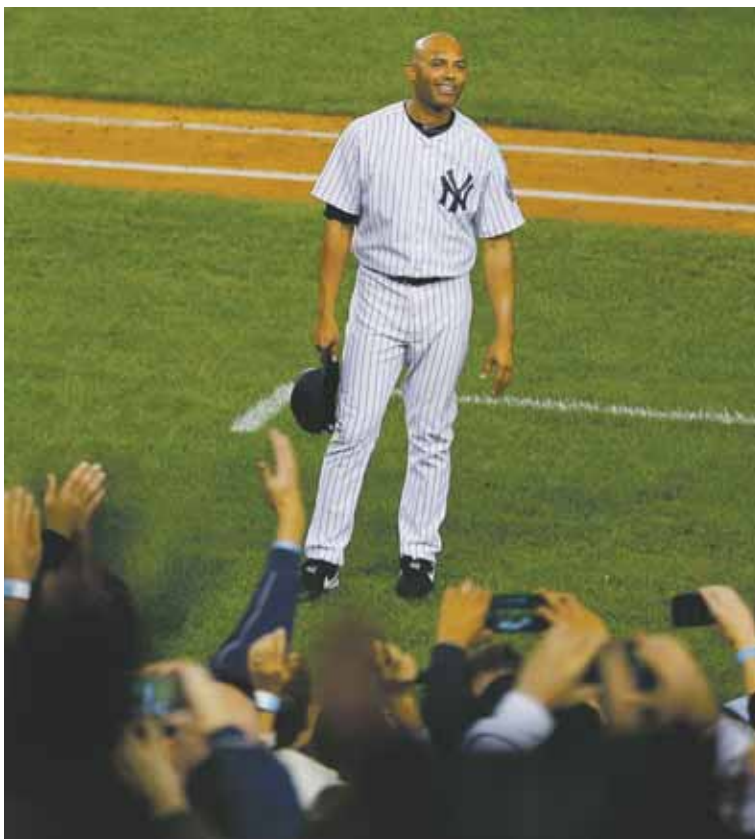

It was only fitting that the final game of Rivera's career came at Yankee Stadium on Sept. 26, 2013, against the Tampa Bay Rays.

And of course, Rivera was spotless despite appearing in the 4-0 loss.

The 43-year-old pitched 1.1 innings without allowing a hit. With two outs in the ninth, Jeter and Andy Pettitte walked to the mound for one of the most emotional pitching changes ever.

Rivera collapsed into the arms of his long-time teammates before exiting the mound for the final time to a standing ovation.
